

Salm Global Land is an independent asset manager headquartered in Wallhausen, with additional locations in Atlanta (USA) and Waverley (New Zealand). For generations, the Salm-Salm family has owned land and benefited from its yields and returns. On this foundation, we acquire and manage land for our clients. In doing so, we place particular emphasis on the protection of ownership and on responsibility toward people and nature.

As part of a two-year trainee program, get to know our business areas of land and forestry asset management as well as renewable energy. Discover where your strengths lie and develop your potential within these business areas.

What we offer:

- First-class training in our areas of expertise: global investments in agriculture and forestry as well as renewable energy
- An interdisciplinary workplace within a young, dynamic team with a global presence
- A 24-month program with individual areas of focus
- Opportunity for an international assignment
- A three-month placement at an agricultural operation in Sachsen-Anhalt or Mecklenburg-Vorpommern
- Active involvement and responsibility for tasks in day-to-day operations as well as in current projects
- Supervision and support from our specialists in the respective departments
- Access to an international network
- Prospect of subsequent permanent employment

Over the course of several months, you will rotate through the following business units and support your colleagues, among other things, in the following activities:

- Agriculture and Forestry Asset Management: Comprehensive support in structuring investments in land and forestry for private and institutional clients, building diversified portfolios, long-term sustainable management of acquired forests and operations, and CO₂ certification.
- Renewable Energy: Support in the development of new wind power and photovoltaic projects, as well as in the supervision of ongoing projects.
- Across departments: Insights into sales, marketing, and accounting.

If this appeals to you, we look forward to receiving your application!
